The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying powers are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them willfully with narcotics.

Customs contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

STATES HE HAD ONE LUCKY DAY

Tanlac Helped Well-Known Drayman After Everything Else Failed Him.

Almost everybody in Erie, Pa., knows G. W. Gundaker, of 441 East Fifth St. George, as he is fondly called by those who have admired him for his honesty and integrity for a good many years, has been a sufferer from stomach trouble and indigestion.

"I had a terrible case of stomach trouble and indigestion," he explained, "and although I had doctor's several years I could not get any relief."

"I would just blast up like a mule and get cramps after eating. Yes sir, I would feel all out of shape. The only relief I could get was by taking a little soda, and that relief was only for an hour or so at a time."

"It was a lucky day for me when I got this Tanlac, and I certainly do thank the fellow who recommended it to me. Tanlac is the only medicine that really ever helped me, and I had tried everything. Yes, sir, everything. I am now like a new man and I advise any one who has stomach trouble or indigestion to use this medicine. It surely will cure them. My phone number is Mutual 1707-X, and I would not mind answering any other questions about my relief."

Tanlac is now sold here by the Conneltsville Drug Co.

Tanlac can also be secured in Dunbar at D. C. Eason's Drug Store.—Adv.

How Men Handle Their Money—

Alonzo Yates, who for five years from 1894 to 1899, at such a pace that he spent $800,000.00 a year. This wealth had been accumulated during a period of forty years by his father, a Syracuse merchant. It took the son a scant five years to squander $1,000,000.00 of hard earned money. The sharp contrast between the way the father and son handled money is instructive. The father was respected and the son was laughed at. The father had an abundance and the son died in poverty. Quality in Floor Coverings

Now if ever quality plays a most important part in Rugs, Carpets and Floor Coverings.

Due to the scarcity of wool some manufacturers are very cleverly mixing wool with other materials and the result is very pleasing to the eye, but a jute mixed rug will not wear and will lose its color.

We offer only exclusive quality linens including the famous Whittall Rugs—the best made.

Insist on Getting All-Wool Rugs!

Then too when buying linens insist on getting the genuine—the good old fashioned cork back kind—the kind that will give years of satisfactory wear.

NAVY NEEDS MEN TO FILL UP RANKS OF NAVAL RESERVE

Both Skilled and Unskilled Required in Manning Army Transports and Supply Ships Going Overseas.

The Navy Department has just issued an urgent order to all recruiting officers to make every effort to enroll men in the Naval Reserve Force. Men for practically every branch of the Naval Service are needed. The government has recently taken over one hundred ships from Holland. A good part of these ships will be used as troop and munition transports and must have crews at once. These ships alone will require in the neighborhood of 35,000 men. The Shipping Board has reached the stage now where they will be turning out ships rapidly. While the entire crews of these latter ships may not be Naval Reserve men, they will require several thousand men, seamen, etc.

Men cannot be enrolled in the Naval Reserve and be immediately placed on board ship—they must undergo several months training in seamanship, signals, gunnery exercises, target practice, boating, etc., before going on board. By the time men are trained and ready for duty afloat there will be need for at least 75,000. The sooner these men can be enrolled the more efficient they will be in their duties when ordered on board ship.

Men in large numbers both skilled and unskilled are needed at once for the Naval Reserve if we are to keep our transports and supply ships going efficiently and at top speed. The Navy Recruiting station, Pittsburgh, is open every weekday for the reception of applicants. Men of draft age applying should bring letters of release from their local draft boards.

NAVY BALL TEAM MADE UP OF STARS FROM DIFFERENT BIG LEAGUE CLUBS

BEAUTY OF FORBES FIELD

Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pittsburgh baseball club, values the beauty of Forbes field at more than $10,000. He has refused that amount for permission to place advertising signs in the field, and even turned down an offer to put a huge clock, with an advertisement on it, above the score board. Dreyfuss has the pleasure, each spring, of touring down stadium officers, but this year the amounts offered were higher than ever before. Forbes field is the only National league park lacking these unobtrusive advertising devices.

PRaise FOR BOB GROOM

Umpire Bob Groom, who has worked behind the plate since he broke into the American league, is of the belief that the former Brownie will be of much use to the Cleveland Indians this summer. It is the opinion of Evans that Groom showed about as much stuff last year as he ever did. Groom has fine speed, a corking curve and a most deceptive spitter, which he uses only occasionally. Evans believes that Fohl will make much use of Groom as a relief pitcher since his curve and spitter are often of great advantage in stopping a batting rally.

FORMER PITTSBURGH STAR NOW WITH BROOKLYNS

MATTY AND COBB DISAGREE

Two Masters at Variance on Benefits Derived by Ball Players in Ancient Game of Golf.

Christy Mathewson, noted pitcher and manager, today comes with a big boost for golf, insisting that golf is beneficial to any ball player. If not overdone. In passing, it is interesting to note that Ty Cobb, noted batsman, is a great lover of the ancient game, but gave it up last year as he claimed it "dimmed" his batting eye.

Thus we have the two masters disagreeing. Both are artists, one in deceiving the batter, and the other in "ruining" the pitcher. Ty says the "follow through" in golf is different from the "follow through" stroke in baseball, and that the perfection of one will be the detriment of the other.

Matty already has advised a number of his youngsters to take up the game. Cobb, on the contrary, has tried to discourage it among the diamond toasters. So there you are.

The Confessions of a German Deserter

Written by a Prussian Officer Who Participated in the Ravaging and Pillaging of Belgium

In spite of the continued volume of artillery fire, we brought the two dead men to land. The bridge was now greatly damaged and there was no choice except to replace the damaged pointons by new ones. We began this difficult task as soon as the artillery fire let up. Hardly had we begun it again when a salvo struck and greatly damaged the bridge. Fortunately we had no losses. We were now ordered to wait, and after a half hour began again. The enemy's searchlights were now dark. We brought about two pointons up without interference and then we were suddenly bombarded again. We had attracted the attention of the enemy's patrol.

Several batteries now opened fire on us at one time and after two minutes the entire work was only a pile of wreckage. Two more men were killed. The order then came to retire. Right then we were detailed to attend to the dead and wounded and we were taken out of this danger zone. After we marched about two kilometers up the stream, we were halted, and discovered that the enemy bridge train was in place. We were told that we would get the bridge ready on land. Serious wounding of two pointons each were badly lacerated together, equipped with machine, everything else made ready and then put in the water. The location for the bridge was indicated to us and we rode with all our might down to the bridge position. The enemy did not see through these tactics and did not interfere, so that all the parts reached the position in a very short time, where they were fastened together. In less than twenty minutes the bridge was completed and the infantry stormed over it.

The bridge was covered with straw in order to dull the noise of the troop movements. At the same time, at different places, transports with pointons were assisting the army to cross and before the French found out what had happened our troops had occupied the opposite bank and established themselves firmly there.

The French artillery and infantry now opened a terrific fire on the pointons. Our units, which had defended the pointons, were relieved and replaced by infantry. I was made a leader in the position and with four men at the paddle and 18 infantrymen as a crew, we started our first crossing in a veritable hail of shell, but with only one minor casualty, we reached the opposite bank. A comrade took my place at the steering gear. On the return trip, our pointon was struck by bullets but fortunately above the water line. All about us the pointons crossed, several in a sinking condition. The men who remained them, all of whom could swim, tried to swim to the bank, but many infantrymen were drowned.

We landed, and took a new pointon, which, by a supernatural effort, we managed to get across the river a second time. This time we arrived with two dead and one wounded infantryman. Long before we reached the bank the infantrymen jumped into the shallow water and waded to land. With the two dead left in the boat, we turned around. Our crew ached as a result of the continuous rowing and their hands were soon covered by blisters, but nevertheless we had to row on. There was no rest.

When we were 20 meters from the bank, our pointon was hit below the water line by several bullets. When the bullets struck our boat they made only a tiny hole, but as it emerged on the bottom, it tore an opening as large as a plate. As a result our pointon settled rapidly and there was nothing else for us to do except to jump into the icy water and swim. Hardly had we left the boat when it sank, but we all reached the other bank safe for the moment.

In spite of our wet clothing we had to take a new boat at once, and with our blistered hands had to man the oars again. In the middle of the river we collided with another boat. This boat had lost its pilot and two rowers. It rammed us and our pointon tipped over and 15 infantrymen and one member of the crew were thrown into the water. We were saved along with four men from the other pointon and taken to the left bank. Hardly had we landed before we were ordered to take over a pointon loaded with ammunition.

About five more times we crossed the Meuse. Meanwhile day broke and then a terrible battle developed between the troops which had crossed and the French. The Germans had the best in this encounter because they could not be shelled by the French artillery.

We were given a short rest and lay in our water-soaked clothing in an old abandoned trench shivering with cold. Our hands were swollen to twice their normal size. They pained so greatly that we could not hold a bottle to our lips. It was a terrible sight to see young and strong men lying on the ground helpless and broken.

After a short rest we were ordered to seek for wounded in the burning houses but we did not find many, for most of those who had been badly wounded were unable to save themselves. We were armed to death. Only the buttons of their uniforms and their weapons indicated to us to which side they had belonged.

In some cases, there were not even these vestiges. Only a little heap of ashes within the ruins of a house, was all that was left of whole families for whole streets. During the search most of us behaved as if we had not taken part in the terrible events of the last hour, as if we had not seen the horrors of this encounter and as if we had forgotten entirely the danger we had just escaped.

As to knowing the dead, something which had been taught us by our mother from infancy, or a fear which the average person feels toward a body, there was no sign. My pen would balk if I tried to recall the expressions to describe the acts soldiers as well as officers committed to determine the nationality or sex of the dead. In the meantime, the battle between our troops and the French had reached a climax. Our troops had suffered great losses but now our turn came.

The German artillery shelled us as we crossed the enemy's position with great fury. Our artillery succeeded in silencing the enemy's batteries and we tried to take his high positions by storm.

When we were within 200 meters of the enemy's defenses, the French machine-guns were turned upon us and we were driven back with enormous losses.

Ten minutes later, we stormed a second time and had to retire again with great losses. We again formed for attack within the shelter of our trenches, but the fighting spirit was gone. But we dared not lose courage, although the victims of our useless storming attacks covered the field and we were able to look at our dead comrades all about us.

The artillery started up again; reinforcements arrived; after half an hour, we stormed a third time, over the bodies of our fallen comrades. As we halted about 30 meters from the enemy's trench, he withdrew his entire first line. Soon after we saw the German advance along the whole line. The reason for this unexpected retreat was explained later when we learned that the main part of the French army had retired some time before. The heavy toll of life among our comrades was taken in a more re-argued action.

During the next hour the enemy abandoned all the heights of the Meuse. As we reached the crest of these heights, we could easily overlook the roads over which the French had retreated. They were departing in close formation, in long columns. Our company and others received orders to assemble and soon we pursued the fleeing enemy. It was our work to repair roads which had been destroyed so that they would be possible for our armies, a task that was harder in the burning midday sun, owing to the fact that the dead and wounded had first to be disposed of.

The dead bodies were seized by two men, one at the head and the other at the feet, and thrown into the ditch. Corpses were handled exactly as was a board to be used in building a bridge. Legs and arms were tossed likewise into the ditch. Dead horses and damaged batteries had to be removed. We were not strong enough to remove dead horses. We managed to capture a horse which was running wild and latched him to the carcasses. Corpses hanging in the trees were left there. No one cared anything about them.

Canteens and knapsacks of the dead were searched for food and drink and whatever we found was eaten with the greatest relish.

French soldiers who had died at sunrise covered the road. Others craved to right and left of the road and waited there for relief or death. We did not dare to help them. The order was to advance and we had to march on and on. The captain told us we had to pursue the fleeing enemy with all our strength and much discontent was manifest on receipt of this order.

After being on our feet day and night, slaying like barbarians, taking no time to eat or rest, we continued to receive commands to maintain the pursuit with all haste. The captain understood how we felt and tried to pacify us by friendly conversation.

COKE SUPPLIES AT FURNACES MUCH LIKE AVERAGE IN MARCH

Slight Improvement is Due to Heavier Output of
By-Product.

CAR SUPPLY STILL SHORT

Of the Coke Region's Requirements; Three New By-Product Plants Nearing Completion; 956 Ovens Expected to Be in Full Operation by August.

Special to The Weekly Courier.

PITTSBURG, May 1.—Coke supplies at blast furnaces have measurably improved since last report, although the improvement is only slight. The Republic Iron & Steel company has blown in its Macdonald stack No. 1, at Youngstown, after having sought coke for the stack for about three weeks. Last Monday the Carnegie Steel company blew in the idle stack at the Ingham plant, also the stack at Allen, giving it 31 furnaces active for general work. Many of the blast furnaces are still operating at galloping rates, not having enough coke for full operation.

Estimates are that on the whole pig iron production has been at a slightly greater rate in the central west in April than in March, but the increase has been a very moderate one. As to supplies of Connellsville coke, they have averaged scarcely any better in April than in March, and several furnace interests complain that their supplies have been less. One furnace interest states that it has had more trouble in the past fortnight than even in January or February.

A part of the improvement in coke supplies at blast furnaces, and probably the major part of the improvement, has been due to heavier output by the by-product ovens, which for some time past have been receiving better supplies of coal, resulting in operations at 90 per cent of capacity or better.

Coke operators are decidedly disappointed at the continued difficulty the railroads are experiencing in bringing the coke car supplies in the Connellsville region up to the requirements. Supplies are reported better in the past few days, but these reports for short periods are not given much attention, any more, the trade having had such unpleasant experiences in the past, with better supplies reported for a few days, and then very poor supplies bringing the average down as low as ever.

That the railroads are probably doing their best by the coke operators is suggested by the fact that supplies of coal cars in the Pittsburgh district, as well as at the Connellsville plants that load coal, have been very poor indeed the past ten days, although railroads are under instructions to furnish as heavy supplies as at all possible. The coal mines having requisitions by the Fuel Administration, but their cars come out of the general supply and the other mines have correspondingly smaller supplies.

Coke continues to be a rarity in the open market, offerings being quite exceptional, in the case of both furnace and foundry. The market remains quotable at the government limits, as follows:

Furnace ..... $6.00
Foundry, 12-hour selected ..... $7.00
Crushed, over 1-inch ..... $5.35

More definite information is becoming available as to times of completion of additional by-product plants. The 180-oven plant of the American Steel & Wire company at Cleveland is to make its first coke next week, and is expected to be in full operation within a couple months thereafter. Both the Clairton plant of the Carnegie Steel company, with 640 ovens, and the Lorain plant of the National Tube company, with 208 ovens, are expected to begin making coke about the end of June, to attain full production probably in August. The three plants will probably make over 75,000 tons of coke a week. To what extent the Connellsville coke output will be reduced in this connection is problematical. There are mine facilities for producing additional coal, but on account of labor scarcity and the necessity of transporting the Cleveland and Lorain by-product coal, there will doubtless be some reduction in the beehive coal output. The Clairton coal will move by water.

The local pig iron market has been quiet, about the only transactions being in connection with government orders. The furnaces are well sold up on contract for months to come but are taking care of orders based on government requirements. It is noted that consumers with government orders sometimes call for more pig iron against them than is really needed, using the government orders as a means for securing extra tonnage for private purposes. Transactions are all at the set maximum prices, as follows:

Basic ..... $25.50
No. 1 foundry ..... $22.00
Malleable ..... $22.50
Gray forge ..... $22.00

These prices are f. o. b. furnace, freight to Pittsburgh in the case of the valleys being 95 cents.

THE PRODUCTION AND SHIPMENTS OF STEEL 85 PER CENT CAPACITY

There is an Extension of Steel For War Uses, Not a Commandeering of Entire Output, as Reported.

Special to The Weekly Courier.

NEW YORK, May 1.—The American Metal Market and Daily Iron & Steel Report will review the steel and iron trade tomorrow as follows:

Production and shipments of steel continue at about the same rate as formerly, at the rate of fully 2,500,000 gross tons a month or about 85 per

COKE TRADE SUMMARY.

The fluctuation in car supply, from 100 per cent to 30 per cent, and back again, or from day to day, continues to be the only persistent feature of the situation. This condition has caused to excite comment among the producers, except speculation as to when it will cease, while it tends more and more to produce keen disappointment at the prospect of early or permanent improvement.

Last week's shipment records to Pittsburgh and Western destinations not being available, definite information as to tonnage cannot be given except to the blast where the shipments totaled 45,900 tons, a gain of 1,926 tons. River shipments increased 7,129 tons to a total of 17,239 tons. Gauged by car supply, which averaged about the same as during the previous week, the shipments of last week probably did not exceed 20,000, or 210,000 tons.

This week began with a 100 per cent car supply, dropping to 70 on Tuesday and 50 yesterday with no certainty that the latter will be continued.

The furnace situation is slightly improved more than the heavier production of by-product coke than increased supplies of beehive.

The prospect of 956 new by-product ovens coming into blast by August is attracting attention, particularly as to the effect upon the Connellsville region. These ovens, when running full, will produce 75,000 tons a week, which will be a factor of no mean importance if the existing car situation undergoes no change for the better meantime.

cent of the productive capacity. April as a whole has shown only a slightly greater rate of production than March while on account of January and February accumulations of steel having been shipped largely in March there are cases of mills producing more steel in April than in March, but of shipping less.

While the 15 per cent unemployed capacity represents an unfortunate situation, the 25 per cent is a tremendous tonnage, easily exceeding the total amount of steel made by all the belting during the first twelve months of the war, and possibly equaling their combined production at the present time. The contribution of even 50 per cent of this output to prosecuting the war, on one side, is therefore a very formidable one.

The reports that all steel is to be commandeered for war, leaving nothing for the "commercial" consumer, may be based upon misunderstanding, patriotic enthusiasm or yellow journalism. What they are not based on is actual fact. The Washington authorities require that every ton of plates possible be produced and be shipped for account of shipbuilding, but plates are only one item, and plate rolling facilities, while greatly increased of late, are not such as to permit of more than about 10 per cent of the total steel output being converted into plates suitable for shipbuilding.

As to other steel, restrictions to shipments are temporarily severe, but the authorities are working out a system whereby steel for so-called commercial purposes will be brought under regulation. The change that is occurring is not so much the division of steel into what were formerly considered the war uses, as the extension of the list of war uses. Thus steel for railroads, for the oil industry and for the production and conservation of food is being brought under regulation and the list of sequences from the greatest essentials down to the less essentials will be enlarged from time to time.

Add to Drawing Equipment.
The Orient Coke company is adding three Covington coke drawing machines to its equipment, making four in all. Three are now in operation, the fourth not having been received from the factory.

DRINK A GLASS OF REAL HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST.

Says we will both look and feel clean, sweet and fresh and avoid illness.

Sanitary science has of late made rapid strides with results that are of untold blessing to humanity. The latest application of its untiring research is the recommendation that it is as necessary to attend to internal sanitation or drainage system of the human body as it is to the drainage of the house.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise, splitting headache, stuffy with a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatic stiffness, others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.—Ad.

BUILDING OF CARS AND LOCOMOTIVES NOT MOVING RIGHT

Too Much Time Has Been Lost in "Standardization," Not Now Needed.

NO INCREASE THIS YEAR

Is the Prospect in Locomotive Building; New Car Program Cannot Be Completed Until Next June, After Going Through Another Winter.

There is increasing insistence on the part of a large number of men, adequately familiar with railroading, manufacturing and commerce generally, that the car and locomotive building program of the government should be expedited. The feeling comes out in private conversations in articles in the press, and upon the occasion of such gatherings as the annual meeting recently of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, says the American Metal Market.

To urge that a given government work should be expedited, is, unfortunately, to appear to criticize, for there has been much said recently of various governmental activities having proceeded less rapidly than they should. In this case, however, it is not a matter of criticism of slowness, for nothing of that sort is asserted to exist. What is called the "delay" in the placing of orders for cars and locomotives is attributable to the authorities taking time for consideration as to certain details, and also to wishing to avoid the possibility of interfering with the shipbuilding program. A considerable amount of time has been spent in preparing standardized designs, for both cars and locomotives. There is something so alluring about "standardization" that it is apt to be sought when it is not needed. The frankly given opinion of many experts is that, as applied to locomotives at least, the standardization contemplated does not constitute a good feature. The argument in its favor seems to be that the standardized locomotives can travel anywhere and be more readily repaired than the various designs now in service once these latter travel off their own tracks. Many authorities, however, weigh the argument in the balance and find it wanting. As to expediting the building of locomotives, it is asserted by no less an authority than the Railway Gazette that the plan promises no increase in production by the shops this year, and possibly a decrease, while in 1919 there might be an increase of 10 per cent in output, comparing the standardized locomotives with the various designs as they have been built. The point is that the shops are already prepared to build such locomotives as they have built in the past, while for the new designs they would have to make preparation.

As to freight cars, it seems to be accepted in substance by all parties to the discussion, that if the orders for 100,000 freight cars were placed at once the first cars would not be turned out until about August 1st. As to the rate of building thereafter, there are divergences of opinion, but one high authority asserts that in the circumstances the shops could not turn out more than 10,000 cars a month. There would be barely two months left, after August 1st, to the crop moving season, and only four months until winter weather would presumably slow down railroad operations. Deliveries, at 10,000 cars a month, would not be completed until June 1, 1919, or after the railroads had gone through another winter and had had two or three months' time to recover from its effects.

If these assumptions represent the true state of the case it certainly would appear that carrying out the program with as much expedition as possible would not interfere with other war activities. If there is to be until August 1st for the assembling of materials to build the first cars the railroads would hardly be burdened with the movement to such an extent, as appreciably to affect their service to other war activities. If cars can be built only at 10,000 a month, there would be a drain upon the steel industry of only about 100,000 gross tons a month, when the capacity, in terms of finished rolled steel, is 3,000,000 gross tons a month. The three per cent is not much. It is true shipbuilding is a prime consideration, but last January ships that had been in service were prevented from sailing by insufficiency of transportation, and shipbuilding in January and February was interfered with likewise. Possibly the existence of more cars would not have helped in that emergency, for the trouble was lack of movement rather than lack of cars, but locomotives certainly would have helped, and the locomotive program is not being rushed any more than the car program.

AT THE FIGHTING FRONT

It takes muscles of iron and nerves of steel—real men—men with red blood, men with the brain to do and nerve to back the line. Men "with a wallop," men with vim, vigor, are those who take "Ironite."

"Ironite," a new discovery, composed of iron and herbal extracts, and recently found to be a wonderful tonic for the manufacture of red blood within the body.

Doctor Pierce and a dozen physicians at the Surgical Institute in Buffalo, N. Y., have long experimented and have at last found the best blood maker and nerve tonic known today. This they called "Ironite."

"Ironite" is an iron tonic that puts new energy, life, stamina into the blood. "Ironite" is to be procured of almost all druggists, in 60-cent vials.

If you want to try it, send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce's Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., for a trial package. You will find "Ironite" tablets equally as good and effective as Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which have been known for the past fifty years as a gentle herbal laxative.

Folks at home have acquired the healthiest of habits. They become "regular as clock-work" after taking these "Pleasant Pellets." Easy to take.

THIS drawing is made from an actual photograph of Betty Lane Shepherd singing in direct comparison with the New Edison and thus demonstrating that her voice and the instrument's Re-Creation are indistinguishable.

NOT AN IMITATION— BUT A RE-CREATION

That is what the New Edison renders—a Re-Creation, so complete and satisfying that it is utterly impossible to distinguish the artist's voice from the instrument's. Talking machines imitate but the New Edison Re-Creates.

The famous Edison tone tests have demonstrated the power of this marvelous instrument beyond question. More than 1500 of these tests have been held; more than 30 Grand Opera stars have sung in them—sung in direct comparison with the instrument and proved that no difference could be detected. They have convinced 2,000,000 people that the strongest claims do not exaggerate the merit of
